Autumn Term 2024

Friday 18th October

Learning to Live

Living to Love

Loving to Learn

Thank you to all parents and carers who donated to our Harvest Festival today - all donations will be taken to Skipton Food Bank. We think the children gave us a fabulous service with a real flavour of their cross curricular learning about the Harvest Festival. We hope that you will agree that they really did do us proud. Thank you to Rev Mike for the use of the Church and his support in helping the children to celebrate Harvest.

There's lots to read in this week's newsletter highlighting all the fantastic things going on in school and all the hard work of the children and staff. Next week you will receive the half term round up - looking back on all we have done in Autumn one. This will include information about our visit from 'Power Down Pete' this week! You will also receive the curriculum newsletter letting you know what your children will be learning next half term.

Have a great weekend and we will see you next week for the last week of this half term.

Key Stage Two Write For You!

To support our learning we sometimes hire exploration boxes, this term we have borrowed a Stone Age box. In Owls class (and Kingfishers) we have been studying the Stone Age so we have been looking at some artefacts including: Microliths, Projectile points, an Antler hammer and an Awl.

The different stages of the Stone Age that we have been learning about is the Palaeolithic (first period), the Mesolithic (the middle period) and the Neolithic (the new period). Each of these periods include some important items from the smallest things; like a needle made out of bone to sew leather to make clothes, to a Projectile point to hunt for their main supply of food.

Unlike the items we have today the string was made out of sinew (fibrous tissue uniting muscle to bone) which today we might think is not the most pleasant!

Staffing News

We are pleased to be able to tell you that we have secured a maternity cover for Mrs Snook's maternity leave. Miss Ahmed will take over as Kingfishers Class Teacher towards the end of November. She has already started spending some time in school this week getting to know the children. Some of the children are already familiar with Miss Ahmed as she was previously with us as a student teacher. The children have been delighted to have her back!

Welcome back to Kildwick Miss Ahmed!

Staffing News

We are pleased to have welcomed Mrs Peckover into school as a Midday Supervisor. Mrs Peckover will work every lunchtime and has a lot of previous experience working in schools as a Teaching Assistant.

We are delighted that she has joined the lunchtime team. Welcome to Kildwick Mrs Peckover!

Black History Month

October is Black History Month. The theme this year is "Reclaiming Narratives" which is all about recognising and correcting the narratives of Black history and culture as well as showcasing the success stories of Black heritage.

We will cover this in school, learning about why we have Black History Month as well as learning about and celebrating the children's author Malorie Blackman.

Scholastic Book Club

Last week children came home with Scholastic Book Club Leaflets, where lots of amazing books can be bought! We have signed up to Scholastic's Book Club and books can be bought directly using our link:

Autumn Digital Book Club - Scholastic Shop

If you are having a pre Christmas clear out please keep EYFS in mind!

We are always on the lookout for dolls, dolls clothing and accessories; costume jewellery; old rolls of unused wallpaper; metal kitchen accessories; wooden toys; large building blocks; real and fake plants (indoors and outdoors); buttons and beads; toy animals; sand timers; baskets and boxes; old camping equipment; photo frames (without glass); logs; old picnic equipment.

SEND @ Kildwick

Our school SENCo is Miss Akrigg. You can find information regarding SEND at Kildwick on the website here.

It is important that everyone in our school community understands about SEND. Even if your child does not have Special Educational Needs they will be in class with children who do. We are an inclusive school and it is important that all members of our school community understand and value all children in our school.

Auditory Processing Disorder (APD) is a neurological condition that affects the brain's ability to process sounds and speech. Individuals with APD may have difficulty interpreting verbal instructions, understanding speech in noisy environments, and distinguishing between similar sounds.

Diagnosis of APD typically involves a comprehensive assessment by an audiologist or speech-language therapist, which may include tests of hearing acuity, speech recognition, and auditory processing. The assessment may also include behavioural observation, questionnaires, and other measures to evaluate the individual's communication abilities and identify any underlying factors that may be contributing to the difficulties.

APD typically involves a combination of strategies to improve auditory processing abilities and address any underlying factors that may be contributing to the difficulties. Some common approaches include:

- Auditory training: Exercises and activities designed to improve auditory processing skills, such as discriminating between sounds or identifying words in noise.
- Environmental modifications: Changes to the listening environment to reduce background noise and enhance speech clarity, such as using sound-absorbing materials or hearing aids.
- Language and communication therapy: Intervention to improve language and communication skills, which may be impacted by APD.

Adaptations can be made at school to support children diagnosed with APD including:

- Use of assistive technology: Devices that can enhance communication, such as personal FM systems, captioning, or speech-to-text software.
- Classroom accommodations: Modifications to the learning environment to support the individual's needs, such as preferential seating, extended time on tests, or visual aids.

It is important to seek evaluation from a qualified professional. An audiologist or speech-language therapist can help to determine whether APD is present and develop a plan for treatment and support.

Supporting your child with Key Stage 2 Maths - Online

Adult Learning North Yorkshire is offering a free online course, 'Supporting Your Child with Key Stage 2 Maths'.

Starting on Monday, 11th November, from 6:30 PM to 8:30 PM, this 6-week course is designed for parents and caregivers who wish to enhance their child's mathematical skills while also improving their own understanding of the subject.

Participants will:

Explore the current Key Stage 2 maths curriculum.
Learn effective strategies to support their child's learning.
Engage with other parents in a collaborative environment.

Parent Consultations

We are looking forward to seeing lots of you for parent consultations next week. Please note that appointments will last a maximum of ten minutes. Please help teachers by being mindful of time and leaving sessions promptly. It is frustrating for other parents when Teachers start running late.

Where possible children should not be brought to these appointments. Where children do need to attend please be aware that they cannot be supervised by club staff due to staffing ratios. Parents are welcome to book children into club should they need to do so.

Mrs Swales will be available from 3:30pm—4:30pm for both of these sessions to discuss the use of Zones of Regulation in school and tips for home.

Come and Help in School!

We are still on the lookout for volunteers to come into school and support with learning. If any of you are able to spare any time we would love to hear from you. This could involve supporting in a PE / Art / Science lesson, helping out with the walking bus, supporting on a school trip, extra curricular activity or listening to readers. We would also be very grateful of any help in maintaining and developing our school environment.

Please email the school office if you would like to be added to our volunteers list.

Zones of Regulation Top Tips for Home!

Each week we share a 'tool' from the Zones of Regulation 'toolkit' in this section of the newsletter. These are strategies for children (and adults!) to use to help recognise and manage emotions. See the first newsletter of this year for further information on the zones. You could try this at home—have a look at this week's tool. If you would like any further information you can contact Mrs Swales.

It's Nice to Be Nice

Give someone a compliment, show them attention, or cheer them on. You can do this with your words, gestures, or even by dropping them a little note.

Why to try?

Showing focused attention and appreciation to others can help to create positive relationships and a feeling of social connection. Seeing someone else smile releases feel-good hormones in us as well.

How do you feel?
What Zone would this help in?

Meet the Team

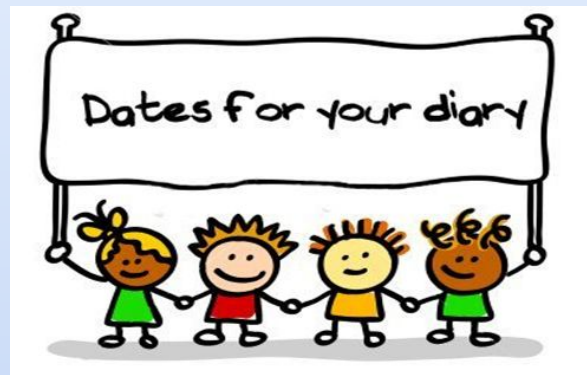

There are a lot of adults working with and supporting your children in school. Some of them you will have less contact with than others. We will use this section of the Newsletter to help parents and carers get to know everyone. This should be particularly useful for parents who are new to the school! Meet....Mrs Swales.

Hello Chronicle Readers,
Here at Kildwick CE Primary School, it's important we support all our children as much as possible to feel ready to learn, be proud of their achievements and to be confident within our school community. I feel extremely privileged to play a part in supporting many children as part of the Kildwick team in my roles as the Mental Health Lead and Pastoral Care & Welfare Co-ordinator, as well as my main role working in Robins class with our EYFS and Year 1 'Treasures', who are just amazing! All my roles are varied, helping all our school community. As an Emotion Coaching Practitioner Trainer, Zones of Regulation Co-ordinator and a recent completion of a MA in the Mental Health of Children and Young People, I have great interest in these areas with plans to pursue further studies. Out of school, I like to spend time with my wonderful family either out and about exploring our fantastic countryside or snuggled in watching a film.
